

ASML Holding N.V.

High-NA inflection intact, with memory first in focus

Reiterate Rating: BUY | PO: 1,710 EUR | Price: 1,345 EUR

Key takeaways from expert discussion on High-NA litho

We hosted Sam Sivakumar, a former Senior Fellow and Director of Lithography at Intel. ASML's High-NA was viewed as an important lever for Intel in its push to regain technical leadership, giving the company an opportunity to bypass scaling challenges. While High-NA still brings transition risks around tool availability and utilisation, the expert expressed confidence in adoption being ultimately inevitable as the industry continues to scale. Overall, the call was in-line with our recent deep dive, reinforcing our view that High-NA remains critical to scaling, albeit with adoption likely to vary by customer. We reiterate Buy/Top Pick on ASML at PO €1,710/$2,019.

Stitching appears manageable, but adds design work

A key High-NA trade-off is the smaller exposure field; instead of the full 26mm x 33mm low-NA field, High-NA prints half the field in one direction, requiring stitching for larger dies. The expert described stitching as a technical challenge, where designers would need to plan for the stitching boundary and incorporate this into layout rules. However, initial concerns that designers would resist the half-field limitation appear to have faded, with designers now seen as broadly comfortable with the additional constraint.

Memory looks structurally easier for High-NA adoption

The expert believes DRAM is well suited to High-NA, as smaller die sizes make stitching less of a constraint. This contrasts with TSMC, where larger logic die sizes make the High-NA half-field constraint more relevant; combined with a pitch-division process that works well, explaining TSMC's lower urgency to adopt High-NA today; consistent with our view of TSMC being last to adopt High-NA in 2032 vs. DRAM vendors first in 2028.

Stochastics remain an EUV and High-NA concern

The expert highlighted stochastics as a key challenge for EUV and High-NA, as higher-energy EUV photons mean fewer photons vs. traditional lithography, increasing random variation in the resist reaction. High-NA adds complexity through wider photon angles, with these fluctuations potentially translating into critical-dimension variation.

Company Sector

Semiconductor Capital Equipment

Company Description

ASML is the market leader in lithography tools, a critical part of the semiconductor manufacturing process enabling 'Moore's law'. The company benefits from technology transitions as well as new additions in leading edge logic and memory chip capacity. ASML currently has a market share of close to 90%, which will likely become a monopoly in next-generation EUV lithography.

Investment Rationale

ASML has industrialised next gen EUV (Extreme Ultraviolet) lithography technology, which we believe will underpin many of the disruptive trends of this decade. Our Buy rating is predicated on 1) our long-term forecasts calling for double-digit revenue CAGR and upper-teen EPS CAGR over the next 5 years, and 2) potential upside to ASML's 2030 targets from AI and stronger industry demand.

Price objective basis & risk

ASML Holding N.V. (ASMLF / ASML)

We have set a PO of €1,710 ($2,019 for the ADR). We use a 30.0x CY27E EV/EBITDA to derive our PO, within its historical range of 18x to 34x and above its 5-year historical median of 26x given accelerated EPS growth

Upside risks to our PO are:

- 1) Higher-than-expected demand for EUV and DUV machines
- 2) Higher-than-expected gross margins on EUV machines and services
- 3) Stronger-than-expected Semi Capex environment driven by macroeconomic trends and higher capital intensity per wafer.

Downside risks to our PO are:

- 1) Delays in ramping volume shipments of EUV machines
- 2) Lower-than-expected gross margins on EUV machines
- 3) Weaker-than-expected Semi Capex driven by macro slowdown/oversupply
- 4) China export restrictions

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). Our investment ratings are: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. An investment rating of 6 (No Rating) indicates that a stock is no longer trading on the basis of fundamentals. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

Investment rating	Total return expectation (within 12-month period of date of initial rating)	Ratings dispersion guidelines for coverage cluster ^{R2}
Buy	≥ 10%	≤ 70%
Neutral	≥ 0%	≤ 30%
Underperform	N/A	≥ 20%

^{R2}Ratings dispersions may vary from time to time where BofA Global Research believes it better reflects the investment prospects of stocks in a Coverage Cluster.

INCOME RATINGS, indicators of potential cash dividends, are: 7 - same/higher (dividend considered to be secure), 8 - same/lower (dividend not considered to be secure) and 9 - pays no cash dividend. Coverage Cluster is comprised of stocks covered by a single analyst or two or more analysts sharing a common industry, sector, region or other classification(s). A stock's coverage cluster is included in the most recent BofA Global Research report referencing the stock.
