For Mainland China residential, the initial sales data for the National Day Golden Week looks encouraging: (1) 26-city real-time secondary sales +59% Y/Y; (2) 44-city visitations +16% Y/Y; (3) primary subscription sales +15% Y/Y. This is not a surprise given it was the first week after the policy of mortgage subsidies became effective on October 1st. This, however, is a knee-jerk reaction to a nationwide policy rollout. The real question is sustainability after 1-2 months. Generally, we would not be overly excited about a policy-driven sales improvement (which has historically been short-lived); rather, we would be more keen to see organic improvement (like 2Q26). Beyond high-frequency data, based on our preliminary checks with leading SOE developers, the picture is more mixed. While some said "decent growth", some said the market was still "soft". On October 8th, Chinese developers rose 1% (HSI: -1.4%), led mostly by SOEs (COLI +4%; CRL +3%), on the back of strong sales data. However, most distressed names actually pulled back, especially the "high-beta policy proxies" (e.g. Vanke-H & Sunac both down 6%) (Figure 5). This divergence shows the market was rewarding the near-term data improvement (as seen by the outperformance of SOEs), rather than speculating on policies (which have already materialized, thus prompting profit-taking). Our top picks remain CR Land, COLI & KE Holdings (covered by Daniel Chen). For Mainland China retail, key landlords saw 5-10% Y/Y same-store tenant sales growth, which is better than feared. We stay constructive on CR Mixc. For HK retail, Mainland tourist arrivals rose 9% Y/Y (overall +6%), and multiple retailers reported double-digit Y/Y growth in tenant sales (e.g. Sasa up >50%; K11 MUSEA tourist spending +26%; jewelry, hotel & F&B up double-digit % - more in Table 5), potentially supported by HKD depreciation. This read-through is positive for Wharf REIC.

Mainland China - residential property sales

- 26-city real-time secondary sales (实时二手成交) +59% Y/Y (Figure 1): According to Iceberg Index, this is an acceleration from the 19% Y/Y growth in September. For tier-1 cities (excluding Shanghai), secondary sales have risen 42% Y/Y MTD (September: +9% Y/Y). Tier-2 cities outperformed: Xiamen (+114% Y/Y), Qingdao (+109%) and Nanchang (+105%). However, note that historically the data trend shown by Iceberg Index has usually been more drastic than that shown by official sales registrations (Figure 2).
- 44-city visitation volume (带看量) +16% Y/Y: According to Iceberg Index, the growth was led by lower tiered cities including Linyi (+116% Y/Y), Huai'an (+106%) and Jining (+97%) (Figure 3). However, 7 cities recorded a Y/Y decline in visitations, such as Tianjin (-10%), Dalian (-7%), Chongqing, Zhuhai (both -5%), and Shanghai (-4%).
- Subscription sales (新房认购量) +15% Y/Y: According to Centaline, subscription sales in 50 major cities rose 15% Y/Y over the Golden Week. According to CREIS, Beijing's subscription volume has risen 49% Y/Y MTD (Table 1).
- Iceberg tier-1 cities' listing price index fell 0.1% W/W for the week ending 4 Oct (Figure 4), showing no notable price improvement despite policy easing. However, the weekly data only includes 4 days of the Golden Week, and we think the data next week might be more relevant.

- Sales registrations (网签) show improvement: According to the official sales registrations, 19-city primary sales rose 9% Y/Y during the Golden Week (Table 2), while 12-city secondary sales saw strong growth of 82% Y/Y (Table 3). That said, sales registrations only reflect the actual sales from a few weeks ago. In other words, the data we see here only represents the pace of registrations, not the actual sales during Golden Week. As such, we believe the official sales data over the next few weeks would be a better gauge of Golden Week sales performance.
- What are developers saying? We spoke to a few leading SOE developers, and the picture is more mixed. While some said the sales performance was "pretty good" (one reported >20% Y/Y growth), some others said momentum was "soft" and they saw a Y/Y decline in both sales and visitation.

Mainland China - tenant sales in shopping malls

- What are landlords saying? During the Golden Week, leading shopping mall landlords saw 5-10% Y/Y growth in same-store tenant sales. Malls with higher exposure to luxury brands underperformed overall tenant sales. Meanwhile, average daily footfall also rose >5% Y/Y.

Hong Kong - tourist arrivals and retail sales

- Mainland tourist arrivals rose 9% Y/Y: Mainland tourist arrivals reached 1.42 million over the 7-day Golden Week (Table 4), up 9% Y/Y but still 7% below the 2018 peak. For all tourist arrivals (including non-Mainland), the data is up 6% Y/Y in October MTD.
- Discretionary retail sales saw solid growth: Based on the commentary from various retail operators (Table 5), retail sales across tourism-related categories saw robust growth during the Golden Week. Sasa (a leading beauty product retailer) posted >50% Y/Y growth, while On Kee Dry Seafood and pharmacies in key tourist and border districts recorded 20-30% Y/Y growth. K11 MUSEA reported 26% Y/Y growth in tourist spending. By category, jewelry & gold, hotels & F&B all saw double-digit % Y/Y growth. According to the HK Retail Management Association, 70% of their members reported single-digit to low double-digit % Y/Y growth during the Golden Week.

Important Disclosures

Company-Specific Disclosures: J.P. Morgan does and seeks to do business with companies covered in its research reports. As a result, investors should be aware that the firm may have a conflict of interest that could affect the objectivity of this report. Investors should consider this report as only a single factor in making their investment decision. Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:
J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com.
