Buy: Firm commitment in AI continues

China

- AI investment continues as monetization also kicks in
- Faster cloud growth partially offset by tough comps in games
- Maintain Buy, cut TP to HKD600.00 (from HKD655.00)

Investment in AI continues: Tencent continues to make progress in AI development; most recently the close integration of WorkBuddy into the WeCom ecosystem. We expect AI spending to continue to pick up and therefore higher capex and opex as more chips are procured and subsequently deployed to support rising demand of agentic AI and model upgrades. We forecast capex (excluding media content) of RMB200bn in 2026e, RMB240bn in 2027e, and RMB260bn in 2028e. To fund AI spending, Tencent has multiple options: robust free cash flow generation from core business aside, it can leverage its investment portfolio (over half are listed investees), bonds/notes, and bank loans. We raise our expense assumptions for AI spending and interest cost. We cut 2026-28e non-IFRS net profit by 4-9%, even though we anticipate continual progress in AI monetization and cost savings from deeper integration of the HY model family into powering its harness products (see 2Q26 NDR call key takeaways, 7 September 2026, for AI strategy details). We raise 2026-28e revenue by c1% on a more optimistic cloud outlook, offsetting slightly lower international games assumptions on a more conservative recovery pace of Supercell's contribution. Our lower TP of HKD600.00 (from USD655.00) reflects the changes, but at a c13x 2026e PE, we think consensus' earnings-cut risk is largely in the price. We maintain a Buy rating.

Game pipeline: (1) HoK: ACE saw a pullback in grossing performance after a strong start. We expect a monetization ramp-up to take more time. (2) New launches to watch: (i) The Hidden Ones (December 2026), (ii) Monster Hunter Outlanders (29 October 2026 overseas for mobile version, 2027 onwards for domestic launch); (iii) Animula Nook (sometime in 2027); and (iv) Roco Kingdom: World (first overseas testing on 27 October 2026), after a solid start with the domestic launch in March (see A defensive opportunity into 2027, 23 September 2026).

3Q26 preview: Tencent is expected to report 3Q results on 18 November. We expect revenue and gross profit (y-o-y) to grow 8% but non-IFRS operating profit (OP) to fall 5% on higher AI spending. Excluding AI spending (RMB15bn), non-IFRS OP would have grown 9% y-o-y. By segment (all y-o-y), we expect revenue in (1) domestic games to grow 12% led by Delta Force, Valorant mobile, and Honor of Kings, (2) international games to fall 6% given a decline in Supercell's games and a high base from Dying Light: The Beast, (3) marketing services to grow 17%; and (4) fintech and business services to grow 9%, with business services revenue growth accelerating to 26% thanks to higher AI demand.

Valuation and risks

Tencent
700 HK

Buy

Current price:
HKD417.80

Target price:
HKD600.00

Upside:
43.6%

Valuation

Methodology: DCF

Assumptions: WACC of 8.1% (from 8.4%) is based on a debt/debt-and-equity ratio of 25.9% (from 21.1%), risk-free rate of 4.25%, mainland China market equity risk premium of 4.75%, beta of 1.21, tax rate of 25%, and cost of debt of 3.6% (from 3.2%). We use a terminal growth rate of 3.5%.

This results in a lower target price of HKD600.00 (from HKD655.00), which implies 43.6% upside. We maintain our Buy rating as we see solid fundamentals in games and ads.

RMB counter: For the RMB counter (80700 HK, RMB355.80), our TP of RMB542.00 (from RMB589.00) is converted from our H-share target price based on our FX team's RMB-HKD assumption of 1.18 (from 1.17) at end-2026e.

Risks to our view

Downside risks:

- Inability to get monetisation approval for games.
- Regulatory headwinds for games and internet finance.
- A deeper macro slowdown that could affect advertisers' budgets.
- Inappropriate advertising and video content.
- Changes in user preferences in terms of entertainment formats or communications.
- Overhang from major shareholders' reduction of stake over time.
- Being included in lists of overseas regulators that can affect operations or even trading/ownership of the stock.
- Higher-than-expected AI investment intensity and/or weaker monetisation/ROI could pressure margins and cash flow.

Equities: Stock ratings and basis for financial analysis

HSBC and its affiliates, including the issuer of this report ("HSBC") believes an investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances such as the investor's existing holdings, risk tolerance and other considerations and that investors utilise various disciplines and investment horizons when making investment decisions. Ratings should not be used or relied on in isolation as investment advice. Different securities firms use a variety of ratings terms as well as different rating systems to describe their recommendations and therefore investors should carefully read the definitions of the ratings used in each research report. Further, investors should carefully read the entire research report and not infer its contents from the rating because research reports contain more complete information concerning the analysts' views and the basis for the rating.

HSBC assigns ratings on the following basis:

The target price is based on the analyst's assessment of the stock's actual current value, although we expect it to take six to 12 months for the market price to reflect this. When the target price is more than 20% above the current share price, the stock will be classified as a Buy; when it is between 5% and 20% above the current share price, the stock may be classified as a Buy or a Hold; when it is between 5% below and 5% above the current share price, the stock will be classified as a Hold; when it is between 5% and 20% below the current share price, the stock may be classified as a Hold or a Reduce; and when it is more than 20% below the current share price, the stock will be classified as a Reduce.

Our ratings are re-calibrated against these bands at the time of any 'material change' (initiation or resumption of coverage, change in target price or estimates).

Upside/Downside is the percentage difference between the target price and the share price.

Rating distribution for long-term investment opportunities

As of 30 September 2026, the distribution of all independent ratings published by HSBC is as follows:

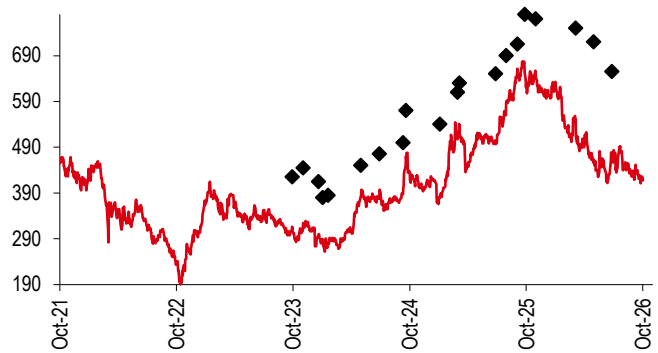

Buy	60%	(12% of these provided with Investment Banking Services in the past 12 months)
Hold	35%	(12% of these provided with Investment Banking Services in the past 12 months)
Sell	4%	(10% of these provided with Investment Banking Services in the past 12 months)

For the purposes of the distribution above the following mapping structure is used under our current model Buy = Buy, Hold = Hold and Reduce = Sell. For rating definitions please see "Stock ratings and basis for financial analysis" above.

For the distribution of non-independent ratings published by HSBC, please see the disclosure page available at http://www.hsbcnet.com/gbm/financial-regulation/investment-recommendations-disclosures.
