We came away from the F2Q (Apr-Q) print incrementally more positive on AVGO's growth outlook over the next couple of years, reinforcing our conviction that the AI compute buildout remains early-innings and that AVGO is the most strategically entrenched provider of ASIC/XPU compute/networking. Apr-Q results were solid and, despite a fair amount of hand-wringing ahead of the print, Jul-Q guidance still landed ahead of Street consensus with revenue of $29.4B (+84% Y/Y) and AI semis revenue up 200%+ Y/Y to $16B. But the more important signal was orders: AI bookings eclipsed $30B against $10.8B shipped, lifting backlog sharply and raising revenue visibility even further. Mgmt even struck a very confident tone on FY28 visibility (unusually early), with what we see as ample room for that FY28 pipeline to keep building over the next 12-18 months. Management detailed an expanding, increasingly diversified customer set, reaffirming a multi-generation TPU engagement with Google, underpinned by substantial revenue commitments from Google and reciprocal supply commitments from AVGO (which we have repeatedly highlighted - link, link); Anthropic, layering an incremental ~5 GW of next-gen TPU from FY27 atop its >1 GW FY26 footprint; OpenAI, with first silicon already delivered and 1.3 GW slated for FY27 within its 10 GW/2029 commitment; Meta's multi-generation MTIA program (3 GW through 2028, initial 1 GW XPU-plus-networking order delivering in 2H27); and two further customers ramping from late 2026, with $6B of POs already in hand. Notably, for AVGO's >20 GW XPV compute platform built with Apollo and Blackstone to fund capacity for Anthropic and OpenAI, we estimate only ~5 GW is delivered in FY27 (~1.3 GW OpenAI + ~3.5 GW Anthropic), implying ~15 GW still to ship in FY28 for those two customers alone; folding in Google, Meta, and other at-scale programs, we think FY28 AI revenue could approach $300B - far in excess of current expectations. We would also highlight accelerating software momentum: VMW is reaccelerating as rising server CPU core counts (increasingly deployed alongside GPUs) drive VCF adoption, with Jul-Q software guided to $8.9B (+31% Y/Y) and ARR growth holding in the high-teens% - we would expect this strength to persist for multiple quarters given the strong ramp in server CPU deployments currently underway. On profitability, while consolidated GM compresses as margin-dilutive XPU revenue mixes higher (Jul-Q GM guided to ~74%), relatively flat opex should keep operating margin roughly steady near-term before inflecting higher on sharply rising revenue (strong operating leverage setup). Though mgmt continues to anchor FY27 AI revenue at ">$100B," we read this as conservatism/moderation

(the team wants more certainty on brick/mortar datacenter build/securing power commitments) and we reiterate our $150B+ outlook for FY27. Net, we are increasing our estimates and consequently raising our price target to $580 (from $500). We reiterate our Overweight (OW) rating on AVGO, which remains our top pick in the semiconductor sector.

- Modest AI semis upside again drove better-than-expected Apr-Q results. F2Q26 revenue of $22.19B (+14.9% Q/Q, +48% Y/Y) came in slightly better than Street consensus ($22.13B), driven by AI semiconductor revenue of $10.8B (up ~28% Q/Q and ~143% Y/Y), on continued XPU strength and accelerating AI networking (networking represented ~40% of AI revenue). Non-AI semiconductor revenue was $4.2B (+2% Q/Q, +6% Y/Y), with broadband, storage, and enterprise networking up and partly offset by seasonal wireless softness. Infrastructure software was $7.2B (+6% Q/Q, +9% Y/Y), in line, with ARR growth of ~17%. GM was roughly flat Q/Q at 77.1%, while record operating margin of 67.3% (+200bps Y/Y) and adjusted EBITDA of 69% (ahead of Street) underscored strong operating leverage. EPS of $2.44 came in ahead of consensus of $2.39. Most notably, AI semiconductor bookings exceeded $30B against $10.8B shipped, lifting backlog sharply.
- July quarter outlook points to a sharp AI inflection. Jul-Q revenue was guided to $29.4B (+33% Q/Q, +84% Y/Y), solidly above consensus ($28.6B), driven by AI semis revenue, which is accelerating ~50% Q/Q to $16B (up 200%+ Y/Y) on the ramp of Google's next-gen TPU (v8i) and accelerating AI networking. As we mentioned in our preview note, the AI revenue was negatively impacted by the Anthropic switch from chip-only sale from full rackscale. We look for non-AI semis revenue of ~$4.5B (+12% Y/Y), reflecting a broadening cyclical recovery (non-AI bookings exceeded $6B in the quarter), and infrastructure software of ~$8.9B (+31% Y/Y), a notable acceleration we attribute to strong VCF 9.1 adoption as rising server CPU core counts (increasingly deployed alongside GPUs) pull through VMware. On margins, we model GM stepping down to ~74% as margin-dilutive AI semi revenue mixes higher; we would note this reflects revenue mix rather than any structural change in semiconductor margins. Even so, we see operating margin holding roughly flat Q/Q at ~67% on a slight step-down in opex.
- AI revenue build: we see a pathway to $150B+ in FY27, with ~$300B potentially in the cards for FY28. We expect FY26 AI semis revenue of ~$57B+ (up 180%+ Y/Y), and while mgmt's official FY27 framing remains ">$100B" (which we view as driven by conservatism) we maintain our view that AI revenue will ultimately exceed $150B in FY27. For AI networking alone, we see potential for revenue to exceed $45B next year (see our recent report on this here) on the fastest product ramp in Broadcom's history (Tomahawk 6 already nearly sold out for next year, alongside Jericho 4 scale-across routing, Tomahawk Ultra scale-up Ethernet, and 1.6T PAM4 DSPs), with Broadcom holding ~70% share of a switching/routing silicon market we expect to grow at a 50%+ CAGR over the next several years. On the compute side, we see FY27 underpinned by Google (multiple TPU generations, ~6.5M TPUs in Broadcom's FY27 order book), Anthropic (~3.5 GW), OpenAI (1.3 GW), the initial Meta MTIA ramp, and two additional customers ($6B of POs already in hand). The more powerful signal, in our view, is FY28: of the >20 GW XPV compute platform built with Apollo and Blackstone to fund Anthropic and OpenAI, we estimate only ~5 GW is delivered in FY27 (~1.3 GW OpenAI + ~3.5 GW Anthropic), leaving ~15 GW to ship in FY28 for those two customers alone - worth roughly $180-225B at $12-15B of content per gigawatt. Layering in Google, Meta, the two additional at-scale programs, and continued networking growth, we see FY28 AI revenue potentially approaching $300B, with content per gigawatt continuing to rise gen-over-gen (multi-die designs, embedded CPU, higher HBM). That AVGO already has this degree of FY28 visibility and an order pipeline extending into 2028, with room to build further over the next 12-18 months, speaks to the durability and magnitude of the AI infra build-out cycle that still remains ahead.

- Increasing estimates and raising our PT to $580. Given what we believe is a better FY27 backlog number and higher confidence around that backlog, we are taking up our FY27 EPS estimates. Our new PT of $580 assumes that AVGO trades at 20-25x (23x) $25.35 of earnings power exiting FY27.

J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
